About ISO 14001 Foundation

What is the ISO 14001 Standard?

ISO 14001 is the international standard that outlines the requirements for an effective Environmental Management System (EMS). It provides a structured framework that organizations can follow to measure and improve their environmental impact, rather than establishing specific environmental performance requirements.

An EMS is a set of internal policies, practices, and records that define how a company interacts with the environment. ISO 14001 helps businesses identify, manage, monitor, and control their environmental issues in a holistic manner. Key focal points include:

Resource Efficiency: Reducing waste, minimizing energy consumption, and optimizing water usage.

Pollution Prevention: Managing and reducing carbon emissions, waste disposal, and chemical handling.

Life-Cycle Perspective: Considering the environmental impact of a product or service from raw material acquisition to end-of-life disposal.
